RE: Carrie Prejean

Dear Mr. Hirsch:

Yesterday I wrote you to inform you that Carrie Prejean was not interested in accepting your offer to publish any videos or tape recordings of her for any price. Since that time, the undersigned was informed that your company has apparently told the media that it plans to publish the videotapes and/or photographs of my client with or without her permission. For that reason, we are writing at this time to inform you that the unauthorized use of any videotapes or photographs of my client will result in her suing for invasion of privacy, including misappropriation of her likeness for a commercial purpose, as well as public disclosure of private facts. She will also sue for intentional infliction of emotional distress and seek full consequential and punitive damages. You should further be advised that when we first learned about the existence of these videotapes and photographs two weeks ago, we were told at that time that Ms. Prejean was only 17 when at least some of them were taken. For these reasons, we expect you to refrain from violating our client's rights by publishing any photographs or videotapes of her.

Sincerely,
